"OLD KY. HOME" WEEK IN H'BURG

Residents of County Seat Enthused. P-T. A. To Give Special Program May 6.

Hardinsburg, May 3. (Special)—The Parent-Teacher Association of Hardinsburg, will give an "Old Kentucky Home" program in the chapel of the High School, at 8:00 o'clock, Friday evening, May 6th.

The Old Kentucky Home Commission is asking all the towns in the State to observe the week beginning May 8, as "Old Kentucky Home Week," in an effort to secure and preserve Federal Hill, the place near Bardonia, where Stephen Foster wrote "My Old Kentucky Home," as a shrine for the public.

The idea is to secure funds for the purchase of the place with its old furniture and other valuable treasures. Convert the grounds into a park, and present it to the State, and it is to be Foster what Mt. Vernon is to Washington. As it seemed impossible to observe the entire week, and as the Parent-Teacher meeting came just two days before, it was decided to give this one program and ask for a free will offering from the pupils of the school, and from the audience. Hardinsburg is "up and doing" and certainly wants to help in this State wide campaign.

No special amounts will be asked for. The contribution basket will simply be passed, and all who want to contribute will be given an opportunity to do so.

Everybody invited to come and enjoy the following program:

Song - - - Old Black Joe, Foster Sketch of Federal Hill

- - - Mrs. Fred Schultz Song, Massas In De Cold, Cold Ground

S. P. PARKS TO RUN FOR SENATE AGAIN

Appeals to Voters of 10th Senatorial District For Indorsement.

TO THE REPUBLICAN VOTERS OF THE 10TH SENATORIAL DISTRICT:

Four years ago after the Republican leaders had made a futile effort to find a Republican to make the race for the State Senate in the old 10th district, at the last hour for filing an application with the Secretary of State for the nomination, I was apprised of the fact that if I did not send in my application papers that afternoon the Republicans would have no candidate in that race.

I hesitated, and demurred slightly, only because I knew there was no busier man in the district than I was, even at this time when every body seemed busy, and no one that could not better relinquish his hold on his work than I could.

Owing to the exigencies of the war I was placed in a strenuous position, my brother doctor had enlisted in the army, two neighboring doctors had moved away, my son had walked out of his drug store and enlisted, and this work and business was left on my hands to attend to with but little assistance available.

But I yielded to my party's request not seeing, I confess, very far down "the vista of time." No other Republican would offer himself upon the sacrificial altar at this time because the district had always been considered normally, hopelessly, Democratic, and were the district now as it was then, I am sure I would not have any opposition within my own party. I assure you my sleep was not normal during the campaign, I made a gallant fight, kept up my work, never neglected a patient, and won the race by a majority of 800.

Since then the district has been re-districted and is regarded safely Republican, and what a change, why, even those that were "doubtful and afraid" four years ago are wanting to run now.

Was it worth while for me to make this race, undergo this labor, did any good result from it, did any advantage accrue to the party?

Well, let's see. Had I not yielded and made the race, although the House was safely Republican, swept in as a result of Gov. Morrow's 40,000 majority, yet, the Senate would have stood 21 Democrats and 17 Republicans.

Consequently, not one syllable of the great and beneficent measures advocated by Gov. Morrow during his memorable campaign, and which were so ably and insistently presented by him before the last session of the Legislature known as the Administration Bills, would be entitled to a place in the Kentucky Statutes to day, as they would not have stood a ghost of a show of passage had not I yielded "on that last day in the evening."

Fellow Republicans, it took my vote together with Senator Burton's vote, and Lieut. Gov. Ballard's vote to put the little Registration Certificate as- sleep otherwise, J. C. W. Beckham would be in the U. S. Senate to day and Dick Ernst would be at home practising law.

The length of this article precludes my giving further reasons why I should receive an indorsement; but I hope that before the August primary I may have the opportunity to meet every Republican voter in the district, male and female, and discuss during my term of service as Senator with you the great work accomplished and in which I had the honor of participating.

Voters, if my past official course meets your approval, and I court an investigation and close scrutiny of the same, and you see proper to honor me with this nomination, I promise to make the best fight in my power for party success at the poles in November, and bringing my past experience as a Legislator to my command, I shall try to render the best service of my life if elected. Very truly, S. P. PARKS.

Mr. L. T. Reid, one of the veteran locomotive engineers in point of seniority of service for the L. H. & St. L. Railway succumbed at his home on River Street, Friday morning at 8:50 o'clock. Mr. Reid had been ill for over a week suffering with mastoiditis. His condition grew worse on Thursday and early Friday morning he fell into unconsciousness, due to a ruptured blood vessel in his head, from which he never rallied. Mr. Reid's death came as a great shock to his family and friends. He was a man of large stature and apparently in the best of health before his sudden illness.

The funeral was held from the residence Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The Rev. J. R. Randolph and the Rev. E. C. Nall officiated at the home. Burial was in the Cloverport cemetery where the Masons held their last rites. The active pallbearers were: Messrs. S. P. Conrad, L. McGavock, James Winchell, Fred Ferry, Edward Graves and H. M. Behen.

A great number of friends, some of whom were from out-of-town, attended the funeral, and many messages of sympathy and floral tributes were received at the Reid home from the officials and employees of the L. H. & St. L. R. R., and persons whom Mr. Reid had befriended during his thirty-one years of service with the railroad.

Born in Ohio.

Lathrop Tracy Reid was born in Bucyrus, Ohio, April 26, 1870. He was the son of the late William Reid and the second member of the family of ten children to pass away. Mr. Reid came to Kentucky when he was nineteen years old and started working for the L. H. & St. L., which had then just been organized, and the late William McCracken, of Louisville, was president. Mr. Reid has been an employee of the road since then, and at the time of his death he had the regular run on the "Plug" accommodation train between Cloverport and Henderson.

Mr. Reid was elected Mayor of Cloverport about eighteen years ago. He was re-elected for the second term. For several years he served as a Councilman and was a member of the board of school trustees. At one time he was urged by his friends to make the race for Representative from this District on the Republican ticket but he declined. Mr. Reid was a loyal Mason, a member of the Presbyterian church since early manhood, and was a man of a genial disposition, who made scores of friends by his kindness and thoughtfulness.

Twenty-three years ago Mr. Reid was married to Miss Lafayette LaHeist, daughter of the late Lafayette LaHeist and Mrs. Martha LaHeist Smith, of Cloverport. Mr. Reid was the father of seven children: Three daughters, Misses Martha, Emily and Eleanor Reid; and four sons, William L., Lathrop Tracy, Lafayette LaHeist and Charles Moorman Reid. Three of his children are to be graduated this month. Miss Martha Reid is to be graduated as a nurse from the Jewish Hospital, Louisville, on May 31st, and William L., and Miss Eleanor Reid are members of the Senior class of the Cloverport High School their commencement being May 20.

Surviving with the widow and seven children are three sisters, Miss Lois Reid, of Bucyrus, O.; Miss Anna Reid, of Honolulu, H. L., and Mrs. John Martin, Sacramento, Cal. Four brothers, Robert Reid, of Ocean Side, Cal.; Chas Reid, Gallin, Ohio; Edward Reid of Bucyrus, Ohio, and James Reid of Tonopah, Nevada.

Reynolds and Miss Tema Leah Bloch, of Louisville; Mr. and Mrs. McCarthy, Messrs Shellman, Montgomery and Petrie, of Henderson, Mr. Jerry Keenan, of Fordsville, Miss Lois Reid, of Bucyrus, O., and T. SCHOOL TRUSTEES ELECTION MAY 6

Four Members Are to Be Elected on Local Board. Women Are Eligible.

Saturday, May 6, the annual election of trustees for the Cloverport Public School will be held at the school building from one to six o'clock p. m. Four trustees have to be voted for in this election.

One new feature that enters into the election this year is that women are entitled to hold office on the school board same as the men. There are some indications that one or two women may be candidates on Saturday. Should any be elected it will be the first time in the history of Cloverport that a woman has served on the local school board.

Those Eligible For Election Attention is called to Senator Bright's amendment to the graded common school laws, section 4469—a Kentucky Statute. This amendment setting out certain qualifications of graded school trustees may be found in the supplement to Kentucky School Laws enactments of 1920 from which the following is quoted:

"No person shall be eligible to the office of member of the Board of Education who has not attained the age of twenty-five years and who is not a citizen of and bona fide resident of this Commonwealth and of the city for which he is elected three years next preceding the election; no person shall be eligible to this office who at the time of his election is directly or indirectly interested in any contract with the Board, or who holds any office of trust or agency of, or whose father, son, brother, wife, daughter, sister-in-law is employed as teacher or in any capacity by such Board, or who is directly or indirectly interested in the sale to the Board of books, stationery or other property. If he shall after election become a candidate for any office or agency or for the nomination thereto, the holding or discharging of which would have rendered him ineligible before election, or if he shall remove out of the city for which he was chosen, or if he shall do or incur anything which would have rendered him ineligible for election or if any of his relatives above specified be employed by the board, his office shall without further action be permitted to vote in any election by the Board in which any of his relatives or connections above named shall be candidates."

WORK AND SMILE

"Work is the one thing needed to restore normal prosperity," said Vice President Coolidge recently. "We must work and smile."

The farmers of America have already set about doing THEIR share toward restoring a normal and healthy activity in American business and industry.

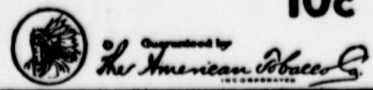

Let the rest of us take up OUR work with the same earnestness and cheerfulness that the American farmer has taken up his, and the wheels of business will once more hum with steady and stabilizing effect.

The Emerson Show Boat "GOLDENROD"

Presenting JOHN CORT'S New York Criterion Theatre Success

"Johnny Get Your Gun"

A Comedy Drama that is not, by any manner of means, a war play. The "Gun" that "Johnny" uses is a fake gun from a Moving Picture Studio. The same attraction that ran for one year at the Criterion Theatre, New York. "Johnny" was only a Cow Puncher, but he sure did raise old Ned when he landed on Long Island.

WAIT THERE IS ONE THAT IS THE BEST. THIS IS IT. EXTRA FIVE ACTS OF PALACE VAUDEVILLE AS AN ADDED ATTRACTION YOU'LL BE SORRY IF YOU MISS THIS ONE IT'S THE SEASON'S ONE REAL TREAT.

pacts to start to St. Louis this Tuesday to spend some little time with his daughter, Mrs. Anastacia Skillman.

Friends and relatives here congratulate Thomas Henry Rhodes, of Clarkson, Ky., on his graduation from Clarkson High School, Grayson county commencement exercises May 6th, 1921. He is the oldest son of Charles Rhodes, deceased, of Leitchfield, and has been quite a studious little boy under the guidance of his good little mother, Mrs. Mattie Horrell Rhodes.

Miss Lucile Cannon was the guest of Misses Mary and Monica Rhodes last Thursday.

The opening base ball game was played last Sunday afternoon between Falls of Rough and McDaniels on Falls of Rough diamond. They scored 15 to 7 in favor of McDaniels.

EMERSON HAS GUARANTEED ATTRACTION.

The Emerson show boat "Golden Rod" the largest and most popular boat on the river wishes to announce that they will be in Cloverport on Wednesday, May 11, with a show that is guaranteed to be the best and most elaborate that has ever been attempted by any boat, and this is saying a whole lot, when you think back and remember "A Pair of Sixes," "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," "The Call of the Cumberlands" and a few more of Mr. Emerson's previous successes. But it is with pride that Mr. Emerson announces John Cort's Criterion Theatre, New York success, "Johnny Get Your Gun" for this seasons attraction. For more than one year "Johnny Get Your Gun" convulsed the playgoers of New York and then it was sent on tour. Here it met with equal success and it was only by paying a big royalty that Mr. Emerson was able to obtain this play for the river, as he figures that people along the river enjoy a New York success as well as those in a large city. No! "Johnny" is not, by any manner of means, a war play, but is one of the best comedies ever produced by an American author.

The vaudeville end of the show consists of five acts of super-vaudeville that keeps right up to the high standard set by the show, so if you are looking for an evening of real enjoyment, don't be misled, there is only one show boat that is best, this is it.

MISSED HIS MORNING CLARION.

Uncle Peter Drewry, not being seen on the streets for a few days, aroused suspicion, and a delegate was appointed to investigate. They found him lying in bed in the best of spirits. Upon being asked what the matter was he said: "The rooster has not crowed yet." And it was found out later that said rooster died three days before of old age, being ten years and nine months old.—Witts Springs correspondence Marshall Mountain Wave.

AS AN ENGLISHMAN SEES OUR MECHANICAL CIVILIZATION

Finds Something Fresh in All American Devices.

Writing in Harper's Magazine, Mr. W. L. George, the friendly English critic, who has been describing his experiences in America, has the following to say about the "mechanical civilization in America":

"I have enjoyed nothing more in America than the mechanical civilization. One finds it everywhere. There is something fresh in all the American devices. For instance, a shoeblack after moistening my boots with liquid blacking, dried them with a small electric fan. I don't know that this dries them any quicker or any better than the wind, but I like the mechanical idea. I like, on railway platforms, to see little electric trucks carry the luggage, replacing men who shout and perspire. If this is excess, it is in the right direction—namely, toward the minimization of effort. The United States have done more in this way than all the other countries put together. For instance, the electric iron price $8 or so, which is fitted to a light plug and enables the housewife to save its cost in a month by doing her own ironing. It also enables the poor girl, who has only one good skirt and two decent blouses, to remain smart. The iron is a part of the American home, where I find other wonders—the linen chute, which saves the handling of linen and precipitates it into the linen room; the electric washer, that big drum, in which you can leave your linen to swirl among soapuds and think no more about it; the electric wringer, which saves you the trouble of squeezing the wet linen, and which is so delicate that you can trust even lace to it. This civilization is extraordinary and takes extraordinary forms, such as the electric curling iron, the immersion heater, which enables you to warm your coffee when you have no coffee pot by dipping a stick of metal direct into the fluid; and even the safety comforter, which you can connect with a plug and lay upon any part of yourself which aches. Everything in America is thinking of how to make life easy than anywhere else."

Southern Methodists' Representative Church at Washington, D. C.

A Church Where Standing Room is at a Premium

Several Sundays ago, the pastor of the Cloverport Methodist church, the Rev. J. R. Randolph, took a public collection at the eleven o'clock hour. The money was to be used for three purposes, viz: The prorata of the local church for the up keep of the District Methodist parsonage, which is the home of the Presiding Elder; the prorata of the local church for the salary of the Editor of the Central Methodist, and the prorata of the local church for the support of the Representative Southern Methodist church, Mount Vernon Place, Washington, D. C.

All Methodists know of the District parsonage and its up-keep, and are familiar with the Central Methodist and how it is supported, but not all Methodists are aware of the fact that Southern Methodism has a representative church of its own at the nation's capital, built by Southern Methodists alone at a cost of nearly half million of dollars.

Should you visit Washington and step into this church some Sunday, no doubt you would ask the same question hundreds of others have asked, "What is happening here today, something special?"

You would be answered by one of the corps of capable and courteous ushers that this was only the usual service held 104 times a year, and he would take great pride and pleasure in telling you about the beautiful building, its history, and so on, the wonderful work it is doing, and the magnetic pastor, Dr. Clovis G. Chapell.

The Overflow Service.

If it was about 11 a. m., you would stop and read a large portable sign on the front steps which would tell you of the overflow service in the Sunday school room and six or eight stalwart young men standing near by would advise you that there was not even standing room in the auditorium, but that you could secure a seat and hear a fine sermon in the Sunday school room by the assistant pastor, Mr. Rippey, and at the same time save a long climb up the steps.

You will be asking why all this is true, and about the only explanation that can be made is that they have a pastor who preaches nothing but the pure saving gospel of Jesus Christ, that the church is located where the vast tide of human beings flows in several directions, and the membership is well organized and working industriously under the efficient management of the assistant pastor, and the Lord is unquestionably leading

WHICH WILL LAST LONGER SPLIT OR ROUND FENCE POSTS?

Some people believe split fence posts last longer than do round ones. Probably as large a number hold the opposite view. The Forest Products Laboratory of the United States Department of Agriculture says that one will last about as long as the other if the percentage of heartwood and sapwood are the same in both. If the percentage of sapwood is increased by splitting, the split post will be less durable, while if the percentage of heartwood is increased it will be more durable than the round one. Exceptions to this should be made if the posts are of spruce, hemlock, or any of the true firs, whose heartwood and sapwood are about equally durable.

If the posts are to be treated with creosote or some other preservative, the round post is preferable to the split, because of the comparative ease with which the sapwood can be treated. Experiments at the laboratory demonstrate that the heartwood faces on split posts do not, as a rule, absorb the preservative as well as does the sapwood.

OIL-BURNING LOCOMOTIVES USED IN ENGLAND

In England, the London and North-western Railway Co., has converted some of its coal-burning locomotives into oil burners, which are described and illustrated in the May Popular Mechanics Magazine. The fire box has been lined with fire brick, and "scarab" oil burners, of the type in which the oil is atomized by a jet of steam, have been installed so that there are three burners in a row across the fire box. The burners are supplied with oil by means of a pipe line running from an oil tank, with capacity of 1,000 gallon, which is installed in the tender, in the space that used to be occupied by the coal. Adjacent to this tank is a heater, through which the oil passes on its way to the burner, and in which it is warmed sufficiently to make it flow readily through the reducing valves, and to atomize freely.

the hosts.

The main auditorium is crowded to overflowing both morning and evening with standing room at a premium. The overflow service is conducted by the assistant pastor and in every respect is a regular church service, with a sermon, boys' choir of twenty-five voices and two soloists, ushers, etc., and even a collection to make the service real. The attendance at these overflow services is from two hundred to five hundred, with both interest and attendance increasing.

The Sunday School.

The Sunday school has trebled its membership in the past two years, and notwithstanding the large numbers who have left the city on account of their work with the government being finished there is no apparent diminution in the Sunday school attendance; in fact, it is constantly increasing. Hardly a classroom is sufficiently large for the class occupying it, and it is a serious problem to find adequate space for those who come. At the present time, eighty young people are enrolled in teacher-training courses. These people are not only being trained for the local church needs, but as they return to their homes they will be equipped for work in their communities.

The Boy Problem Unusual

The boy problem at the Representative church is somewhat unusual in that it is not how to get the boys, but what to do with the number they have. The assistant pastor is authority for the statement that he could have a boys' club of five hundred in three months if he had the room. The meetings for the boys and girls are made interesting and wholesome, and they all want to return and bring their little friends with them. They have the use of a nearby gymnasium one evening a week, but the tragedy of it all is the lack of facilities to care for those who come.

Tower of Spiritual Strength

The Representative church fully justifies the dreams and sacrifices of all who had a part in making it real. It is a tower of spiritual strength in the national capitol and Jesus Christ is proclaimed to the multitudes. During the past year prominent men and women from France, Canada, South America and other places have worshiped in your Representative church, as well as your representatives, senators and cabinet officers, but the pride of the church is that it ministers to all it can reach, irrespective of their station in life.

TEA AND OLIVES SUCCESSFULLY GROWN IN CANADA.

Ottawa, Ont., April 27.—Those with out its borders who look on Canada as a land of snow banks and wild country can take it from Dr. Tolmie, Federal Minister of Agriculture, it is nothing of the sort.

Tea and olives are now being successfully grown on Vancouver Island and a good crop is expected this year. The Minister said recently at a meeting of local horticulturalists Filbert and almond trees are in full bloom and the bamboo crop is large enough to harvest for baskets and fishing poles.

Dr. Tolmie believes it will only be a matter of time until Canada is able to buy its roses from Pacific coast towns within its borders instead of importing stock trees from Great Britain, Ireland and other countries.

DAMAGE SUIT SETTLED

Louisville, Ky., April 26.—On the eve of a trial today in a case in which the estate of Miss Maude Fincel, of Frankfort, was suing the Louisville, Henderson and St. Louis Railway company for her death, an attorney for the estate announced the case had been settled for $4,000.

Miss Fincel and Miss Lena Shennum, a resident of Minnesota, teachers in the county school at Medora, Jefferson county, were both killed as they were crossing the railroad tracks at Medora, November 6, 1919.

Christian is the father of twenty-three children and his numerous grandchildren and great-grandchildren are residents of many States. He is a well-known huntsman and bears marks of many battles.

BILLY SUNDAY INSPECTS MAN O' WAR

Great Evangelist Likes To See Thoroughbreds.

When Billy Sunday, the evangelist, was a professional ball player on the Chicago team under the captaincy of his brother-in-law, Adrain C. Anson, he was famous for his speed in the field and on the bases. He was a ten second man for the hundred yards, and whenever he poised at first base for a steal of second he was the embodiment of alertness and agility. As long as he remained in the game his principal asset was speed.

As a preacher Dr. Sunday has employed methods peculiarly his own. The dash shown on the ball field has manifested itself in what has been called "pep" by some and punch by others. That he is in as good physical condition at the present time as when he was the only rival King Kelly had in the stealing of bases all who have seen him in the pulpit or on the platform can testify.

Speed with Billy Sunday has always had a business value. It is a quality which long ago prompted some of his admirers to pay a tribute to him and one of the most reliable pacers racing on Eastern tracks last year was named in his honor. In his baseball days Dr. Sunday like other ball players, frequently visited the race course. He took keen pleasure in the performances of the turf stars of the day, and after he deserted the ball field for the pulpit he always had time to talk of the horses and their performances.

One of the first to ask permission to inspect the great thoroughbred Man o' War was the evangelist. He had never seen the champion of the turf in action, but in common with other citizens of the United States he believed Man o' War surpassed all other thoroughbreds this country has produced to date. Thus it came about that Dr. Sunday made a special trip to Lexington, last Monday. After viewing the renowned four-year-old he said: "I have never wagered on a horse race in my life, but I certainly like to see a thoroughbred run."

There are many clergymen who share Billy Sunday's views about horses. A Presbyterian minister was for years one of the most successful breeders of trotters in Kentucky, while a member of the Roman Catholic hierarchy not only bred trotting horses but wrote so entertainingly of them that he was recognized authority on blood lines and racing families. A splendid old priest from New England raised thoroughbreds and watched their races on the metropolitan race courses for more than thirty years. The list of English clergymen prominent as breeders of blood stock is a long one.—New York Herald.

VETERAN MEMBER OF MASONIC LODGE DEAD

Cadiz, Ky., April 26.—Allison W. Thomas, oldest Mason in point of membership in Kentucky, died here yesterday at the age of ninety-five years. W. B. Noel, ninety-nine years old, Cloverport, Ky., now an inmate of the Old Masons home at Shelbyville, was probably the only Kentucky Mason to outrank him in years. Mr. Thomas had been a member of the organization for seventy-nine years.

G. P. Thomas, leading Republican politician of Western Kentucky and former candidate for congress, is his son. Mr. Thomas is survived by five brothers and sisters, all more than seventy years old.

ELECTION OF SCHOOL TRUSTEES

Don't forget to vote for school trustees Saturday afternoon of this week. Last year there were more votes cast in the school trustees election than have been in several years. This year, every voter should make it a point to vote in the election.

To have good schools it takes the cooperation of citizens and teachers alike. Elect good men for trustees who are interested in better educated young people and they in turn will exercise care in securing better teachers.

A State law which prohibits persons connected with a railroad from serving on the school board is a great handicap to Cloverport in securing new men for election as trustees. Therefore it requires some thought and attention as to who are eligible for election. However, the women are entitled to a place on the school board this year, and The Breckenridge News stands in favor of the election of one or more women on the local board.

William Wrigley, whose first year's investment in publicity was $300, is now in 1921 setting aside $10,000 every day for advertising. He calls it investment and not expense. He feels as sure as he is of anything that he can no more afford to neglect that than he could neglect the use of good materials and painstaking care in the handling of his product.

Yes, as W. A. Forsythe says, a man to make a success of the business must be in love with it and be ready to study it and follow it intelligently and carefully through thick and thin.

Sunday is Mother's Day. If you have a living mother remember her with some gift of love and appreciation of the sacrifices she has made for you. If she has passed on then make somebody's else mother happy.

Any amount from 5 cents up will be accepted by The Breckenridge News as a contribution for "My Old Kentucky Home" fund to purchase Federal Hill.

Almost every misunderstanding can be smoothed out by gentleness and patience, if taken up at a proper time and with good temper.

Bad weather on the gardens.

FARM AND STOCK

Tobacco bugs are playing the wild now with tobacco plants. Many beds have been eaten up and replanted.

XXXX

The Ohio Valley Tie Co., Louisville, unloaded a car load of stock wagons and tools at Stephensport, last Saturday. They were bound for Derby, Ind., where the company has a large tract of timber to work up.

XXXX

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Stewart, who have been making their home in Louisville, returned to Stephensport, Monday their old home. They said they were sick and tired of city life and wanted to get back to the country where there is plenty of fresh air and where you know your next door neighbor.

XXXX

Charley Butler, of Harned, sold a car load of hogs and cattle in Louisville, Monday. The market he said was a little down.

XXXX

J. F. Dutschke, of Holt, had three big loads of hogs and cattle, on the market. Top hogs brought him 8 cents and top cattle 8 cents. Said he sold the same class of stock last year at 15 cents for hogs, same for cattle. He was consoling himself a little on a side of harness leather that he had bought for 62 cents a pound last year he paid 92 cents a pound.

USE OF CREDIT

Nobody as a rule gets very far in building up a farm, carrying forward a breeding program, or in any other business who is afraid, or does not know how, to use credit. Those who abuse credit usually come even to a quicker end of failure.

The secret of successful use of credit is getting all that one can safely use and keeping it concentrated. The man who allows himself to get in debt to as many people and for as many different things as possible is abusing and not using his credit.

A Kansas man who stands high in Shorthorn circles got a 50 per cent loan on his farm from the Federal Farm Loan Bank. He pays 6 1-4 per cent for it. One per cent of that goes toward paying off the principal and 1-4 per cent for expenses of the loan bank in other words he gets the loan at 3 1-4 per cent interest and in some 33 years the principal works itself out. Twelve farmers in any state can organize under the Federal Farm Loan Act and each borrow up to $10,000 at that rate on land appraised to be worth $20,000.

This Kansas Shorthorn breeder gets from his farm manager on the last day of every month a statement of tools, implements, live stock or what not that has been bought during the month, and on the first day of each month checks are sent to the grocer, the hardware man, the implement dealer, or to whoever has sold anything for the use of the farm. Of course there are months when the outgo largely exceeds the income as in most lines of business, but he does not ask or expect Tom, Dick and Harry to wait for payment of their bills on this account. He arranges with his banker when necessary to make out a new note so that monthly payment of all supply and other bills can be met on a certain date.

The first of each year he makes up for his banker a complete schedule of what he owns and what he owes. He lists the calves and yearlings he expects to sell during the year and is always careful to value them so conservatively that when they are sold he does not fool either himself or the banker. For instance, this year on January 1, he listed six yearlings as worth $1,500 or $250 per head. He has already sold four of them for $1,800, or an average of $450, so you can see that his banker feels that he is entirely safe in extending credit to such a man.

This man very strongly feels that too many farmers slave themselves and their families to death in trying to raise the first mortgage when they might refund it for a long period and use the capital to get better live stock that would enable them to make much more rapid progress.

Sound business sense and careful business methods are needed to make a success of anything. To borrow what can safely be provided for and use the funds only for the legitimate work of the progressive breeding farm is wise economy. To tie up capital in a mortgage free farm without enough more to get the best results in production from that farm means drudgery and a poor living.—Shorthorn World.

MOTHER'S DAY

May 8, 1921

Dear Mother, I'm writing these lines just for you, For the rest of the world doesn't know.

What you've meant to me in the years gone by (All these years that you've loved me so).

And the world doesn't know what a good pal you've been, A real pal, who has proved good and true;

You have stood by your boy, no matter what came; When I brought all my troubles to you,

You were never too tired to give me first call On your love or your dear honest heart.

For you lived just for me, only me, it seemed;

And of your life you made me a part They don't know how you watched over me each day,

How you took me in your arms when I'd cry. Nor how, in the evening, when slumber-time came,

You'd sing me some sweet lullaby. And, too, they don't know of the long weary days

That you toiled and toiled for my sake; And when I was ill I saw your tears fall.

As you prayed unto God not to take Your boy away. I can see you there now.

And, Mother, they must understand By now what I mean when I tell all the world

You're the dearest and best Mother in the land. And I wouldn't give you for all the wide world.

The Time has befurrowed your brow, I loved you in childhood and you loved me, too,

And I want you for my sweetheart now. So, Mother, I'm writing these lines just for you,

And the world dare not say me nay With a smile on your face you gave me your all,

And surely I can give you this "ONE DAY."

—Contributed by Mrs. Harve Dooley, of Stephensport.

THE WHITE SOUL

A nigger sat on the wagon seat, Driving a pair of mules, Trotting them gently down the street, But observing the traffic rules. When suddenly stopping, he sprang to the ground,

And I saw him from where I sat, Raise from in front of his mules' hoofs Somebody's half grown cat.

He did not do, as some would have done, Who thought themselves quite humane, Just throw the wee thing on the side-walk

And start off his team again, But gently, yea even tenderly, He carried it off the street.

And placing it on a store door step, Returned to his wagon seat.

"A fanciful tale" some folks may say But it happens to be quite true, And I'm wondering if—as it did to me—

The thought will occur to you; That in spite of dark skin and kinky hair,

So clear to the outward sight, The soul of the darkey I saw That day was unmistakably white.

—Herbert V. Harris.

Shall Joseph Attend Sunday School?

By Edna Dean Baker

In this day of lowered standards, of prevalent crime, of vicious forms of entertainment of which the average movie is a type, we need to subject our children to every uplifting influence that makes for clean, honest, strong character. We need to seek a permanent remedy for selfishness which is causing the strife between labor and capital as well as all other strife. The Sunday School is one medium for this valuable training.

In many homes there comes a day when the question "Shall Joseph go to Sunday School?" is raised in all seriousness by Joseph's parents. Perhaps they themselves are members of a church, perhaps they are not even church attendants. There is, however, a desire on the part of all genuinely earnest fathers and mothers to secure for their children not only the best in education, but whatever blessing the church may have to bestow. They often express this ambition as did one little mother when she brought her Joseph to Sunday School, "I want my boy to be a good boy," she said.

While going to Sunday School is not synonymous with being "a good boy" any more than going to church insures honesty in business, yet the church has been and is a fundamental agency in creating the ideals, the aspirations, the attitudes that serve as the motive power for right action. The Bible story is a potent factor to this end. Theodore who had listened eagerly to the story of David and Goliath told by a Sunday School teacher who was an artist in making this old story live in the imagination, remarked, "Gee, but that David was a wiz!" and then wistfully, "Do you s'pose I could ever be like him?"

Not alone the creating of ideas of service but the carrying out of such ideas is a prominent feature of Sunday School work today. A class of ten-year-olds had heard with deep concern an account of the starving children of Armenia. They longed to help and decided to solicit doughnuts, cookies and canned fruit from their mothers. They held a sale with the aid of the Sunday School teacher and realized sixty dollars with which to support starving children.

The teaching of the Sunday School is not restricted to establishing a right relation to one's fellows but it includes acquainting the child with God as the Creator of all things thus answering the eternal question of Genesis satisfactorily. It also includes the presentation of God as the Greater Father and hence the friend, protector and guide of every child. "Thank you, God," said a tiny child, "for keeping care of me." The atmosphere of reverence and devotion makes a deep impression upon the child. John's father, a man who never attended any church, consented to his boy's attendance at Sunday School. One morning a few weeks after John had entered the Sunday School, the father became irritated at a refractory collar button and "took the name of the Lord in vain." John who apparently had been asleep, sat up and in a tone of grievous reproach said, "Daddy if you went to our Sunday School you wouldn't speak of God like that."

"Shall Joseph go to Sunday School?" Well, let us at least try the experiment and watch the result. It may do for Joseph what it has done for many another lad. It may give him a faith in the unseen, a vision of worthy manhood, a love for all life which will make his own life more satisfying and a greater blessing to his fellowmen.

SCHOOL NEWS AND VIEWS

J. R. Meador, Supt.

The biggest meeting in the history of the K. E. A. has come and gone. Breckenridge county was one of the fifteen counties of the State registering one hundred per cent membership and a large number of our teachers were in attendance.

The K. E. A. voted to affiliate with the National Educational Association and also to amend the by-laws to permit organization with the county as the unit. By this method an unbroken chain will extend from the most remote rural teacher to the headquarters of the National Association.

The Five Weeks' Summer Extension Schools.

The State Department of Education is leading, with the Normal Schools and State University co-operating, in a movement to establish Extension Training Schools in different sections of the State. These schools will open on June 6th and close on July 8th. They will be in session six days each week for five weeks. Each school will be under the supervision of the institution which directs it, and will constitute a part of the extension work of that institution. The Western Normal has gone over this proposition thoroughly with Mr. George Colvin, the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, and is ready to do anything within its power to make the Summer Extension Schools an eminent success and a real force in the educational life of the State. Different representatives from the State Department of Education are now in the field making a study and investigation of the places where these educational centers should be conducted. Co-operating with the State Department of Education, the Western Normal will give earnest attention to the organization of these centers, as well as the supervision and character of work that will be done. The Western Normal will give credit for all subjects properly completed. Most of the work which will be offered is confined to the first year of high school work and to professional subjects. The following is the course of study:

Mathematics: Elementary Algebra and Arithmetic.

English: Literature, English Grammar and Composition.

History: American History and Civics.

First year Latin.

Science: Physical Geography, Physiology, General Agriculture.

Professional Work: School Management, Study of Kentucky School Laws and Kentucky Course of Study, General Method.

Physical Education.

This summer school for teachers will be conducted in the High School building at Hardinsburg. Prof. J. R. Boyd and Prof. Fred Shultz will be in charge of the work and other teachers will be secured if the enrollment should require.

No student will be permitted to carry more than three solids and two drills. The records of all students will be recorded in the Western State Normal and full credit for work completed will be allowed in that institution. Every teacher who is not in actual residence in that institution. Every teacher who is not in actual residence attendance at the State Normal should enroll and attend the full term of this school. The last week July 4th to 8th will be the regular institute week, and every teacher who is not elsewhere in school, must attend that week.

The corner grocery in the East End has changed hands again. Mr. W. H. Hays, of Addison, who, last week was reported to have bought Mr. Goatsley's stock of groceries, didn't complete his purchase. The latest buyers are Claycomb and Weatherford. Claycomb Bros. own a grocery store on Main street and they will run that jointly with the East End store, having Mr. A. M. Mr. H. V. Harris, of Louisville, was in Cloverport, Thursday. Mr. Harris was the former Superintendent of the old Cannel Coal Mines at Victoria, where operations are in process now in boring for oil. In speaking of the oil well at Victoria, Mr. Harris was real optimistic over the prospects of finding oil there. He even pictured an oil boom for Cloverport. Mr. Harris' greatest pleasure during his leisure hours is to write verse. Elsewhere in this issue of The Breckenridge News is one of his contributions.

Monday was circus day in Cloverport, but it was not like the circus days when Barnum and Bailey, Ringling Bros and those big circuses use to come to town. In the first place old Sol kept his face behind the clouds all day, and a drizzling rain and cold wind was anything but conducive to making a fellow want more "red lemonade stirred in the shade" and all the pop corn and peanuts.

Sangers Great European shows consisted of two cars carrying a few ponies and horses and a band. There was no parade a mile long, and the country folk who came to town to see the elephants, etc., were somewhat disappointed. The show went from here to Irvington.

Peters has been in communication with at least ten (10) prominent school and business men of the state, but all have engagements on that date. However, he expects to conclude arrangements with a speaker before the end of this week.

By reason of the fact that more than two-thirds of the pupils of the first seven grades were absent because of the circus on Monday afternoon these grades were dismissed for the remainder of the day. This time will be made up on some Saturday between now and the end of the school year.

LOCAL CHURCH NEWS

The Methodist Sunday school led in attendance on Go-To-Sunday-School Day last Sunday. The attendance was 146. The Baptist had 140 and Presbyterians 64. No special effort was made by either of the latter two Sunday schools to increase their attendance. The Baptist had their largest attendance at Sunday school on Easter Sunday when over 200 persons were present.

Sunday, May 3, being Churchman's Day of "My Old Kentucky Week," the Baptist and Methodist Sunday schools will observe the day with the singing of some of Stephen Collins Foster's songs and a brief history of "Federal Hill" which Kentuckians are purchasing for a shrine.

Mrs. Frank C. Ferry is chairman for the Baptist Sunday school, and Miss Mildred D. Babbage for the Methodist.

Each Sunday school will contribute an offering towards the fund for purchasing Federal Hill.

Rev. Father J. S. Henry will observe Churchman's Day in the St. Rose church, Sunday morning and his parishioners will contribute to the Federal Hill fund.

On Friday evening, the Women's Class of the Methodist Sunday school will entertain the men of the church in the Sunday school room. Mrs. Geo. Crist was appointed chairman of the entertainment committee with Mrs. David Phelps and Mrs. John D. Babbage as assistants. An interesting program of music and readings is being arranged by the committee. The invitations are being sent to members of Men's Bible Class, who will each bring a male guest.

The Hites Run Baptist church had 61 present on Go-To-Sunday-School Day.

At the Presbyterian church Friday evening the program rendered in observance of Children's Week, a collection of $10 was contributed. The contribution will go towards buying new song books for the church. Misses Eva and Eliza May had charge of the program.

History of Cloverport

Hardinsburg was settled in 1780 by General William Hardin, a noted Indian fighter. He built a fort and was joined by many hunters and trappers. By 1800 they had developed quite a village. As the settlers had to go to Fort Hines (Elizabethtown) for salt and other necessary supplies and carry them over a long trail they decided to try the water route. The nearest harbor was at the mouth of Clover Creek, and at this place the settlers of Hardin's Fort started the town, Cloverport.

Joe Houston built the first cabin in the fall of 1808. This cabin stood near where the Baptist church now stands. Houston returned to Hardin's Fort to spend the winter but came back the next spring. He was soon joined by Horace Newton and Sam LaHeist, who floated down the Wabasha (Ohio) River from Pennsylvania or Virginia. Among the first of these were the Steels, Gregor, Oglesbys, Sebastians and Scotts. Many of these were hunters and traders; others were farmers who wished to open up a new country. These men built a fine landing just above the mouth of Clover Creek. They did most of their trading by water and a great deal of the supplies of Hardin's Fort came through this port.

Col. David R. Murray came from Hardin's Fort and built a tavern near where the Presbyterian church now stands. Later on the town was laid out and called Joesville, in honor of Joe Houston. Sam LaHeist was the first postmaster.

It is presumed that the town was named Cloverport from a large clover field which grew near the town. The town, which at first was divided into two sections called Upper and Lower Cloverport, was united after several years and given a municipal government.

CLAIMS U. S. BEHIND IN FIGHT TOWARDS NORMALCY

Germans Are Ahead of Allies in Labor Production. U. S. Must Go To Work.

New York.—Germany, through the economy and sacrifices of her working people, has settled down to real production and is outstripping the United States and allied nations in the fight toward normalcy. Charles M. Schwab declared here today in an address before the State of New York.

Mr. Schwab was the guest of the chamber at a reception given in recognition of his services to the country during the war.

"Germany today can put a ton of steel in England at a price $20 a ton cheaper than that England can make it," he said, "and is selling pneumatic tools in Detroit, where formerly we shipped such machinery to Germany and sold it cheaper than she could make it."

"The difference is solely a matter of labor costs."

"It is estimated that 5,000,000 men are out of work in this country. It is accordingly of supreme importance to the workman as well as to the capitalist to restore our prosperity."

"Never before was the need for products so great, never before was such valuable producing machinery and facility available, never before was there so much needed to be done."

"I have just returned from Europe, and I came with renewed admiration for the courage, the enterprise, the determination displayed in Italy, Belgium, France and England. Germany was ahead of all of them in production."

"Is it possible that after having won the war, we of the allied nations with everything in our hands, will through the efforts of her labor?"

"Labor on the whole can be paid only what labor as a whole earns, and if some section of labor exact more than their share of the current produce of the world, other sections are going to suffer. I understand that our railroads today pay to labor over 60 cents out of every dollar received. The labor cost of making a ton of steel today is 85 cents out of every dollar received."

"Labor costs underlie our railroad difficulties. They are the cause of excessive railroad rates. We formerly sold pig iron at a profit at about $14 a ton. Today the total freight rates involved in making a ton of pig iron are more than $14."

"But the railroads cannot give service even at present rates with their existing costs."

"Railroad costs must come down."

NEW GENERATION MUST BE BETTER.

Aim of Mothers and Parents-Teacher Associations Set Forth by Pres.

Washington, April 27.—Development of character in the future generation was declared by Mrs. Milton D. Higgins, national president, to be the mission of the Mothers and Parents-Teachers' Associations, in national congress here.

"We are never going to be satisfied if the coming generation only measures up to the generation to which we belong," she said.

Dr. Philander P. Claxton, U. S. Commissioner of Education said the first duty of a parent was to co-operate with the teacher concerning problems of the child.

"We spent billions more in luxuries last year," said Dr. Claxton, "than we have spent for education since the landing of the Pilgrims. We spent $300,000,000 more in cigarettes and tobacco than we spent in education last year."

Dress reform for young women was advocated by Mrs. B. F. Langworthy of Illinois, who declared "the frocks of the girls seem to crowd the edge of modesty, the artificial beauty that they produce with paint and eyebrow pencils seems to smack of the world where it is a commercial necessity to appear physically attractive, and the manners of disregard for the common courtesies of life and lack of veneration is very hard on the vanity of the older generation."

"HUMAN FLY" FALLS TO DEATH

Andrew Coray Fell From Howard Hotel; Had Premonition of Death.

Baltimore, Md., April 28.—While the body of Andrew Coray, "human fly," who fell to his death on Saturday afternoon from near the top of the new Howard Hotel, is lying at the morgue, police are making efforts to get in touch with his widow and child. So far they have been unable to learn their whereabouts, but it is believed they are somewhere in New Jersey.

Police have learned little about Coray. They heard indirectly that his widow was divorced from him some time ago because he refused to give up his dangerous pursuits. The fact that he was separated from her and their child is said to have caused the depression which made him declare on Saturday that he had nothing to live for, and that the three buildings on his schedule to be climbed would be the last he would ever tackle.

Coray's fall occurred while thousands of persons looked on. He had been engaged by the Pentecostal Orphanage to scale the walls of two apartment houses besides the hotel, but he abandoned the apartment houses early in the afternoon because the walls were wet.

Coray seemed to have a premonition of death. He told Mrs. Philip Cohen, his employer's wife, that he had nothing to live for, and especially requested that she and her husband view his ascent. His nervousness was apparent before he started to climb, and often on the way up he paused for a better hold.

Coray was born in Poland and was 28 years old. He was for years a trapeze performer with Barnum and Bailey's circus, but lately developed a passion for climbing buildings. Little more than a year ago he fell from the sixth story of the Hartford National Bank building in Hartford, Conn., and was confined to the hospital for some time.

and it is the interests of national prosperity that our government, acting through the Railroad Labor Board and every other agency, shall reduce railroad wages and bring costs down to a living point.

"In so far as our people in America are prepared to go to work at reasonable wages, in so far as we prepared quickly to abandon the artificial extravagances of the war, will we lay the foundation for a new prosperity such as we have never enjoyed before."

"This is the route through which not merely America but the peoples of our allies can find their way out, and triumph in peace as they did in war."

GROWING ROSES SUCCESSFULLY

A Well Enriched Soil Supplying Plenty of Moisture is Required for Cut-flower Roses.

Cut-flower roses thrive in a well-drained soil that is not too dry and is well supplied with organic matter, say rose specialists in the United States Department of Agriculture. The hybrid perpetuals succeed best in clay loam or in soil with a clay subsoil, but not so well in gravel soils. Many of the tea roses and their hybrids succeed in very light lands if well supplied with organic matter and water, although the ideal soil is a loamy one. A well-enriched soil and one reasonably constant in its ability to supply the plant with moisture is the chief requirement. On the other hand it must be well drained, as roses will not grow when water stands about their roots.

In heavy clay soils or wherever water is liable to stand it is desirable to provide artificial drainage. This is best done by excavating to a depth of three feet, placing a 12-inch layer of stones in the bottom, covering these with inverted sods, and then refilling the bed with well-prepared soil. This layer of drainage should be connected with some proper outlet for carrying off the water. A drain of a similar layer of stones 1 foot or more wide, or a tile, should lead to some main drain, a sewer, or to an opening on lower land, so that surplus water will be carried away immediately. In well-drained soils such special precaution is not necessary. Sometimes the layer of stones, without the outlet drain, will be sufficient.

Rotted cow manure is the best fertilizer for roses. Any other well-rotted manure or good compost will serve the purpose. Fresh manure, especially horse manure, is to be avoided. If no other manure is available, it may be used, but it must neither come in direct contact with the roots when planting, nor should it be used immediately beneath the plant in quantity sufficient to cut off direct connection with the subsoil and the water supply.

Of the commercial fertilizers, ground bone is excellent to add to the food supply, but will not answer as a substitute for plenty of compost. Where it is cheap enough, cottonseed meal may be used as a substitute for bone. Wood ashes are sometimes a helpful addition, or when they are not available lime and muriate of potash applied separately, may be used. Sandy soils need more frequent applications of manure than heavier soils, as the organic matter burns out more rapidly in them and must therefore be replenished more liberally.

EMERSON HAS GREAT SHOW

The Emerson show boat "Golden Rod" the largest and best show boat on the river will be in this city on Wednesday, May 11, presenting by far the best show ever attempted on a boat and the same attraction that run for one solid year at the Critteron Theatre, New York.

In presenting John Court's big success "Johnny Get Your Gun," Mr. Emerson has outdone any of his previous efforts, as the play is one of the best comedies ever produced by an American author, the scenery is very elaborate and the cast is far superior to any that he has been able to engage before, while the vaudeville end keeps up to the same standard set by the play.

Not "Jonny" is not a war play, the "gun" that "Jonny" uses is a fake gun from a motion picture studio and what he does with it would make the most crabbed skeptic laugh right out loud, in fact, it is just the kind of a play the doctor ordered for the tired business man and all lovers of good clean amusements.

Just remember, there may be other boats on the river, but there is one that is best. This is it.

DANTE ON DRESS

Six Hundred Years Ago He Uttered Criticism Heard To-day.

To The New York Herald: There is at present such wide criticism of woman's dress that a credulous reader might suppose some new form of impropriety had been discovered. On reading some of these denunciations I became agitated, and to quiet my mind took down Cary's translation of Dante. The book opened at page 229 and I read:

A time to come
Stands full within my view, to which Shall not be counted of an ancient date.

When from the pulpit shall be loudly

gaze.

JUDICIOUS CULTIVATION OF CORN MAKES BIG YIELD

Thorough Early Plowing Keeps Corn Growing, Kills Weeds, and Prevents Soil From Crusting.

From the time of germination to maturity corn should be given every opportunity to make a steady, sound growth. If the development of the plants is checked from any cause it may reduce the yield no matter how favorable the later treatment. The most successful corn growers realize the importance of thorough, early cultivation in order to prevent any check in the growth of the plants because of weeds or crusted soil. As a consequence of heavy rainfall, the stalks may increase rapidly in height and at the same time, for lack of cultivation or of soil fertility or for other reason, they may be slender, too tender or of poor color. Thrifty corn plants are thick, strong, and of dark-green color.

Use Weeder Soon After Planting.
Horse weeders and harrows should be used when needed to break a surface crust, check insect depredations or kill young weeds that start before the corn is up. While the plant is very small, narrow shovels that throw the soil but very little should be used, and fenders are usually desirable to prevent covering the plants.

Experience favors shallow cultivation, except if excessive rains have packed the soil, when deep cultivation will help to dry and aerate the ground. In cultivating it is important to avoid breaking the roots of the plants. If the plants have reached a height of 2 or 3 feet the soil in the middle of the rows should not be cultivated deeper than 4 inches, and sometimes less. For retaining soil moisture a loose soil mulch 2 or 3 inches in depth should be maintained.

The question is frequently asked how often corn should be cultivated. The answer is that it should be cultivated often enough to keep down weeds and to maintain constantly a loose soil mulch until the corn has attained its growth. A greater number of cultivations will be necessary when rains at intervals of about a week cause the surface soil to run together and crust. This crust must be broken and the soil mulch restored, or evaporated will soon rob the soil of much of its moisture. An essential object of cultivation is to restore the soil mulch as soon after a rain as the condition of the ground will permit. If the ground becomes hard and baked dry the crop will suffer greatly and when cultivated the dirt will break up into clods.

Many crops are cut short by stopping the cultivation because the corn is too tall for use of a two-horse cultivator. If the condition of the soil demands it, shallow cultivation should continue, even though the corn is tasseling. Blocks nailed to the handles will protect the hands from the corn blades. Iron mowing-machine wheels dragged between the rows will sometimes greatly benefit the crop.

With a good riding or walking double cultivator one man can cultivate as many acres as two men with one-horse cultivators. This saving of labor is worth consideration. With a properly constructed wheeled cultivator, covering two rows at a time, one man has often cultivated 15 acres per day.

The shovels with which it is best to equip either single or double cultivators must be determined by the kind of soil, the size of the corn, and size and nature of growth of weeds to be destroyed. For sandy land sweeps are in great favor, and vary from 6 to 30 inches in width. The sweep scrapes along through the soil at a depth of 2 to 3 inches, cutting off weeds and allowing surface soil to pass over them, falling level and flat behind the cultivator.

All forms of shovels should be so adjusted that they loosen the soil and make a fine and even covering for the harder soil beneath. Almost all styles of double cultivators are made either with handles as a walking cultivator or with a seat as a riding cultivator. The latest forms of riding cultivators are easily and readily manipulated and do good work.

IT TAKES SOME WORK TO RAISE CHICKENS

Lola Sullivan, of Popular Grove Farm, Trimble, Tenn., a poultry club girl now 14 years old, has been making a good record since she was 10 years old. In that time she has contended against many disappointments because of diseases, storms, and "varmints." Notwithstanding all her troubles the little girl owns $50 worth bank account of nearly $300. She concludes her annual report for 1920 with of War Savings Stamps, and has a these lines:

All things considered, from beginning to ending.

Hatching and catching and feeding and tending.

Chasing and killing and scalding and pickin'.

There's a great deal of work about raising a chicken.

Watching the hen while she's doing the hatching.

Watching her, too, while she's eating and scratching.

Guarding 'gainst hawks and 'possums and rats.

Driving off crows and dogs and cats. Ready all day to give something a lickin'.

There's a great deal of work about raising a chicken.

CHAIR OF HISTORIC WOOD FOR HARDING

Made From Rib of Old Warship Revenge.

New York, April 25.—A chair made from a rib of one of the first American warships it to be presented to President Harding by fellow publishers throughout the United States, it is announced by Ernest F. Birmingham, editor of the Fourth Estate, who has been collecting subscriptions of $1, each.

Recalling that when President Wilson completed his term the members of his Cabinet purchased from the Government the chair which he had used at Cabinet meetings for eight years, the donors desire President Harding to have a Cabinet chair of his own which he can take to Marion, Or when he retires to private life. They regard it as a glorification of the "editorial chair" which he occupied for a quarter of a century.

Through the courtesy of Stephen H. P. Pell, of New York, the chair will be made from the warship Revenge which was sunk in Lake Champlain by the British on Oct. 11, 1776, and raised in 1909 from the lake bed adjoining property which has been owned by the Pell family for generations. The hull is now at Ticonderoga, where the old fort is being reconstructed by Mr. Pell.

Editors of large and small papers, both Republican and Democratic, have contributed to the fund. It was hoped that the President might sit in the chair at the annual banquet of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association at the Waldorf on Thursday, but his official duties would not permit him to come, and the presentation will take place in Washington next month.

"ALLEY AND BACK YARD BEAUTIFUL"

A Western City That Had a Campaign to Beautify the Town.

The spring clean-up time, now a regular annual feature of town and city life, can not be observed on farms in the same season because of more pressing work. Efforts are made constantly, therefore to encourage picking up the odds and ends about fall planting and early spring. In the farms in the slack time between many towns, however, the home demonstration agents give their organizing ability to furthering such work in the early weeks of spring.

In Spokane, Wash., a campaign called the "Alley and Back Yard Beautiful," began in 1919 to extend through five years. This work was initiated and guided by the city home demonstration agent, whose reports show excellent progress. Newspapers give constant publicity to the work urging the repairing of screens, windows, and outbuildings, and the planting of shrubbery, trees, and flowers. In 1920, in the city of Spokane, more than 8,000 grape cuttings and rooted plants were set out. The chamber of commerce supplied thousands of circulars drawings attention to the duties of citizenship, particularly for

RENEWED INTEREST IN BREEDING OF THOROUGHBRED

Colonel of U. S. Army Says It Is Difficult to Obtain Good Calvary Mounts.

The importance of the thoroughbred to the security of the United States is forcibly brought home to us by some comments of Col. F. S. Armstrong Chief of the Remount Service, Quartermaster Corps, United States Army.

Stressing the point that for years it has been increasingly difficult to obtain good calvary mounts, Colonel Armstrong calls attention to the dire need of them which the A. E. F. would have experienced had the world war continued a few weeks longer, and to the relation of the breeding industry to the question of supplying army mounts in sufficient numbers. "The relation of the thoroughbred horses to the army," he says, "is close. A large number of officers are of the opinion that the cross between the thoroughbred stallion and the grade farm mare will produce the best type of calvary horse."

"For several years the thoroughbred horsemen have done much to aid in the production of calvary horses; and at the present the various racing commissions and jockey clubs have signified their intention of doing greater things."

home owners. In many yards, as a result, there are to be seen purple grapes, the stately hollyhock, the modest foxglove, and many other flowers growing inside freshly painted fences. In one yard, 50 by 142 feet, the hitherto neglected vines produced more than a ton of grapes last year. In the work this spring Spokane is being directed for a beautification campaign to be conducted precisely as the Liberty Loan campaigns were carried forward during the war, each district under a captain with a team, reporting regularly on conditions.

Not—and if you have a Sharples Suction-feed Separator you don't have to, for it skims equally clean whatever speed you turn. But with every other separator you must turn the crank at just exactly the speed stamped on it, or you will lose cream—every time! The wonderful Sharples Suction-feed varies the milk feed in direct proportion to the separating force—never more milk in the bowl than it can perfectly separate. All other separators have a fixed milk feed. Thus when turned below speed much of the milk runs out without being perfectly separated, and some gets into the cream, making it thin and uneven. Thousands of actual tests have proven that 19 out of 20 persons do turn too slow most of the time, and that everybody turns too slow some of the time. Get a

- skims clean at widely varying speeds
- gives the same thickness cream regardless of speed
- skims your milk quicker when you turn faster
- has only one piece in bowl—no discs, easy to clean

Sharples is positive insurance against carelessness and its consequent cream waste, because it skims clean at any speed. A speed indicator, which rings a bell when you turn an old-style fixed-feed separator below speed, is really an acknowledgment of the vast superiority of Sharples, which automatically prevents losses from irregular turning instead of simply announcing them. SOON TO KNOW POLICY REGARDING POSTMASTERS

President May Continue Civil Service Requirements With Modifications.

Washington, April 27.—The first nominations of postmasters to be made by President Harding were sent to the senate today leading to reports that the administration's policy in regard to appointments of postmasters generally would be announced soon. The list contained the names of eighty-four all of whom, according to a statement issued at the White House, had made the highest marks in a competitive civil service examination, except where the veteran statute overrules.

Congressional leaders said their understanding was that the nominees had not only qualified under the civil service requirements, but were acceptable to party leaders in their respective districts and that no delay was anticipated in their confirmation.

Members of both the senate and the house said they expected within a few days a definition of policy in regard to postmasterships from President Harding after consultation with Postmaster General Hays. This would probably be, they said, in the form of an order continuing perhaps with "some modifications," the civil service requirements now existing for postmasters of all classes, and clarifying regulations providing for the retirement of postal employees.

EARTH IS LONG SHOT IN RACE WITH COMET

Only Chance to Win Is to 'Trip Up' Rival.

Berkley, Cal., April 27.—For a month this summer the earth will engage in a race with the periodic comet, Pons-Winnecke, and because it will have no chance to win, it will endeavor, through astral influences to "trip up" its gaseous rival, according to a report made public today by the observatory of the University of California. The earth will not get into the race until the comet has lead of between twelve million and twenty million miles, but then it will "put everything it has" into its test with the comet.

The comet, at last calculation was approximately 37,000,000 miles from the earth. Its nearest approach will be 132 of an astronomical unit, of 12,000,000 miles, on June 7, and soon thereafter the race will begin.

der consideration was not indicated, although in some quarters it has been said that the civil service requirements for appointment might be continued with provision that selections could be made from the first three or four in the list, so allowing some latitude in making nominations.

RECLAIM PRINTED BOOK PAPER BY NEW PROCESS.

Though chemical processes for the reclamation of printed book paper have been in use for some time, their efficiency is reduced by the fact that the mechanical pulping forces the ink permanently into the fibers, says Popular Mechanics Magazine in an illustrated article in its May issue. By a method recently patented, a mixture of 10 pound of borax, 10 pound of soap, 2 gallon of kerosene, and 2 gallon of pine oil is used for soaking 2,000 pound of stock, with enough water to make a 3 to 6 per cent pulp. The beater used pulls the stock apart gently, with a minimum breakage of the fibers and the process is continued for an hour or less, with the pulp heated to from 165 to 190 degrees F. by live steam. The separated ink and the chemicals are then washed away by the usual method, and the reclaimed pulp is ready to be bleached.

SPRAYING PROGRAM ADVISED FOR FRUIT AFFECTED BY RECENT FREEZE

Growers Should Modify Usual Plan. First Ascertain Amount of Damage.

Fruit growers in the sections affected by the recent freeze should ascertain immediately the damage to their orchards in order that they may know what spraying will be needed, say pathologists of the United States Department of Agriculture. Without this knowledge they may lose money by failing to spray when there is enough of a crop left to warrant it, or waste money by spraying when the crop has been destroyed.

Examine Buds in All Parts of Tree.
The extent of the damage must first be ascertained, it is said. Of course, as the season advances and the buds develop it is easier for the grower to gauge the prospect for a crop; but for some time immediately after the freeze it is necessary for him to make a careful and painstaking canvass of the whole orchard inspecting each variety of fruit in every part of the tree to determine the damage done. This is done by splitting the buds, the centers of which will be blackened and the stems discolored, if the frost was fatal.

Peaches are reported to have suffered most over the whole frost-stricken area, except in middle Pennsylvania and New Jersey northward and in some favored localities farther south.

Many reports of the damage done as affecting the possibility of crops are misleading, say specialists of the department. If the freeze leaves 25 to 30 per cent of the peach buds unharmed, they say, there is a fair chance of a crop if all other conditions during the rest of the season continue favorable. Even as low as 10 per cent of the buds, they say, has been known to make a working half crop of fruit.

In the northern portion of the frost-stricken area growers are advised to continue spraying where 10 per cent of the buds are alive, as the shortage of the crop will probably result in prices that will make the expense worth while. Farther south, however, in regions where the blossoms were practically all killed, it will not be necessary to spray for fungous diseases and insect pests. The department specialists caution, however, that in the past short peach crops have sometimes proved erratic, due to June drop, curculio, and unfavorable pollination conditions. The crop may dwindle as the season advances until it becomes a failure.

The situation with regard to apples over the frost-stricken area, it is said, is much more complicated. Ben Davis, Stayman, Winesap, Mammoth Black Twig and most all the summer apples have had their blossoms killed so completely as to leave no prospect even of a reasonable fraction of a crop, it is said. Many other varieties, including York Imperial, Grimes Golden, Jonathan, Rome Beauty, and to a less extent the old Winesap, have a from 10 to 20 per cent up to 50 and 60 and in some cases 75 per cent, varying proportion of the buds alive. Practically all the open blossoms were killed, but from the buds left these varieties have some prospect of yielding a fair crop in some localities if conditions are good during fruit setting and growth of crop.

Keep Foliage in Good Condition.
With apples and pears, specialists of the department say, it is inadvisable to follow the full spraying schedule where the set of fruit does not justify the expense. Two foliage sprays should usually be given to keep foliage in good condition. The operation goes along with cultivation and fertilizing to build up the trees for next year's crop.

For a fraction of a crop of any considerable importance, say from 10 to 20 per cent or more, the calyx spray should be employed by all means, it is said. The usual spray schedule—three treatments, calyx, 3 and 4 weeks' spray, and 8 and 9 weeks spray are for the protection of fruit as well as foliage. In the northern districts where apple scab is bad more spraying may be necessary.

The calyx spray should be given as soon as the blossoms have fallen. For this use lime-sulphur solution at the rate of 1 1-2 gallons to 50 gallons of water, plus 2 pounds of arsenate of lead paste or 1 pound of powdered arsenate of lead, specialists say. Failure to do thorough spraying at this time cannot be remedied by subsequent treatments.

The same spray should be used again 3 to 4 weeks after the blossoms fall. About June 25 to 30, 8 to 9 weeks after the petals fall, a treatment of Bordeaux mixture and an arsenical should be given. By this time growers will know what fraction of a crop to expect and how much fruit they will have to spray.

Growers it is said, should be cautioned against being deceived by what they call "disappearance of the crop" after the blossoms fall this year. For a time at this period, they say, the trees will give an appearance of having little or no prospect of a crop. A close inspection of the trees, however may reveal the presence of fruit.

ALWAYS THE SAME.

"How old are you?" asked the judge of a woman witness.
"Thirty," she replied.
"Thirty!" exclaimed the judge. "I've heard you give that same age in this court for three years."
"Yes," returned the witness. "I am not one of those persons who says one thing today and another thing tomorrow."—Boston Globe.

KY.'S STANDARDS FOR NORMAL CHILD

State Health Board's Bureau of Child Hygiene Announces Nine Essential Requirements.

Louisville, April 29.—The Bureau of Child Hygiene of the State Board of Health, which is being organized by Dr. Edith B. Lowry of the United States Public Health Service, has fixed for 1921 a definite health standard for the school children of the State. Dr. Lowry said here this week in an address delivered before the public health session of the convention of the Kentucky Educational Association. The session, in the nature of a symposium on the work that is being done in the schools of Kentucky under the new physical training law, was participated in by seven public health workers.

Children in the schools of the State to be adjudged normal, Dr. Lowry said, must conform to the following requirements:

1. They must have normal vision or any defects must be corrected by glasses. There may not be any evidence of disease or inflammation.
2. Their hearing must be normal. Here likewise there may not be any evidence of disease or inflammation.
3. Their noses must be clear of adenoids or other obstructions.
4. They may not have diseased nor enlarged tonsils and there may not be any inflammation of the throat.
5. Their gums must be healthy, their teeth must show evidence of daily care, and they may have no unfilled cavities in their teeth.
6. They must have a clean scalp, without vermin, and their skin must be free of any eruption.
7. They must have a chest expansion of at least two inches and there may be no evidence of diseased lungs.
8. They must have a good vaccination scar or a certificate showing recent vaccination.
9. They must be free from hook-

NINE FARMERS MEM- BERS OF CONGRESS

Out of the Whole Lot of 435; Lawyers In Majority.

Relative to the new members of Congress, the Shorthorn World magazine gives some interesting facts:

Out of 435 members of the new house of representatives at Washington 261 are lawyers. Several states sent solid delegations of lawyers, for instance Texas 18, Alabama 10 and Arkansas 7. Iowa sends 9 out of 11, Illinois 17 out of 27, Indiana 10 out of 13, Georgia 9 out of 12, Kentucky 10 out of 11, and so on. About one-fifth of the membership is made up of politicians, mainly the kind that figures the public owes them a soft living. There are a few newspaper men, quite a sprinkling of bankers, a few doctors and just a few educational people. Out of the whole lot of 435 there are only 9 farmers. Now there is nothing against lawyers as lawyers, but the average lawyer, like the average politician, knows or cares no more about the greatest basic industry of the country than a razor-back known about its grand-mother. The average law-making lawyer is either sent or backed by railroads, the financial and industrial combinations or local bosses who regard a public office purely as a private snap. During the last campaign the agricultural papers were filled with costly page advertisements, showing the past disadvantages of farmers and promising great things for the future. The very first steps taken to get the country back to "normalcy" was pressure through the Federal Reserve Bank that fell hardest and more suddenly on farmers than upon any other class of our people. The Shorthorn World would not be in favor of 261 farmers out of 435, instead of that many lawyers, but we are in favor of a better representation and above all an awakening at Washington to the realization that this country cannot prosper or make the progress it should if the interests of the most important element of our population are not given fairer consideration.

BACHELOR BLAMES SPINSTERS AND REFUS- ES TO PAY HIS TAX

Great Falls, Mont., April 29.—Declaring "that spinsters are responsible for my not being married in their refusal of my wooing in the past," William Atsinger, 35 a member of the Board of Directors of the Montana State Fair, today notified the Assessor of Chouteau county that he will refuse to pay the poll tax of $3 levied by the last legislature upon bachelors. "Tax the spinsters of the same age and I will gladly pay, but otherwise it is class legislation, and I stand upon my rights," he declared. "Furthermore I refuse to get married to escape jail, and I refuse to pay a bachelor tax to escape jail."

Mrs. C. B. Biggs, of West Point was hostess at a linen shower given Wednesday afternoon in honor of Miss Thelma Brashear, whose engagement to Lieut. Robert Kunnicke, of Camp Lewis, Washington, has been announced. Miss Brashear is a daughter of Mrs. J. G. Brashear.—Elizabeth-town News.

SEED BEDS THREATENED BY BLUE MOLD

New Disease in Tobacco Not Made Its Appearance in Kentucky Yet.

Lexington, Ky., April 30.—Further damage to seed beds in all tobacco growing sections of the county is threatened by a new disease known as "the tobacco blue mold" which has just recently made its appearance in the United States, according to a warning received by Dr. W. D. Valleau, plant pathologist of the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, Lexington.

As yet the disease has not made its appearance in Kentucky, Dr. Valleau stated, but he has asked that all farmers take precautions and report symptoms of trouble in their plant beds to the Experiment Station. The disease first made its appearance in Gadsden county, Fla., and within a short time had infected practically all of the cigar wrapper tobacco area in the Florida-Georgia district causing heavy losses.

ODD ITEMS FROM EVERYWHERE.

Political profiteering has been smashed by the recent election in Hoopeston, Ill. John A. Heaton was reelected Mayor on a platform that the Aldermen should each receive 25 cents a year and he 50 cents. Heaton defeated the profiteering combine who wanted the Mayor to have $10 a year and the Alderman $5.

NOTHING LIKE IT STATES HARPER

Traveling Man's Strength And Energy Soon Returned After He Started on Tanlac.

"Tanlac put me on my feet eighteen months ago—and I have been feeling fine and able to attend to business with plenty of energy ever since," said G. P. Harper, of 2314 Sixth Ave., Birmingham, Ala.

"Before taking Tanlac," said Mr. Harper, "I had been suffering from indigestion for two years. My stomach would not digest anything properly and I would bloat up with gas that caused the worst kind of pains through my chest and my heart would beat like a trip-hammer. I could eat no meats nor drink coffee and I had to stop smoking. My nerves became upset so that I could never get a good night's sleep. I was considerably off in strength, had but little energy and couldn't take proper interest in anything."

"I had tried to find something to correct my troubles but nothing seemed to reach my case. Finally I decided to try Tanlac, and since taking it I feel like a new man. I can eat just anything, drink black coffee when I please and never have the least trouble with my digestion. I sleep like a child and am feeling fine all the time. Tanlac has helped me wonderfully and it's a pleasure to recommend it."

Identifying Her.

Donald had a new pair of tan shoes of which he was very proud. He came in the house one day after playing with two little girls, one of whom had red hair, and said, "Mother, the girl with the tan hair is very cross."

Farm Renters Warned by Night Riders.
Masked night riders, with horses covered with white cloth, descended upon a score of non-union farm renters near Bridgeport, Ala., and served notice that they "either join the tenants' union or leave your farms within ten days."

LAST MEAL SERVED AT GALT HOUSE

Famous Hostelry of Louisville Razed to the Basement Floor One Man Living Who Saw Cornerstone Laid.

Louisville, Ky., April 28.—While a crowd of expectant citizens—some curious, some thirsty—were gathered at First and Main streets today to celebrate the digging up of the cornerstone of the famous old Galt house, a gang of laborers removed stone after stone and dug into the brick and mortar which filled each, but found nothing. Many felt that the story of a gallon of whiskey and other relics placed in the cornerstone was a hoax, but others were equally certain that the sought stone would be found at the bottom of the foundation.

One hundred invited guests were seated at luncheon—the last meal to be served in the famous hostelry which had fed so many notables in its day—served in the old grill room in the basement.

Henry T. Jefferson, who was in business across the street from the Galt house when it was built and still is, was the only person at the luncheon who remembered seeing the cornerstone laid. The hotel was opened April 5, 1869, he said, and the grand inaugural ball on May 3, following, was the greatest social event ever held in the South. The hotel then was considered the finest in the world. Mr. Jefferson said, and it had 100 new guests every day.

Louis Seelbach boasted that the first dollar he ever made after he came to this country was in the old Galt house, where he was employed. Today Mr. Seelbach and his brother control Louisville's biggest hotel.

Uncle Josh H. Hutchinson, who was a bell boy and butler in the Galt house for forty-seven years, corroborated Mr. Seelbach's statement. Joshua came to the Galt house as a young man four years after it was built.

There were 385 persons employed in the hotel when it opened. "Uncle Josh" said. The greatest day the hotel knew when the Grand Duke Alexis, of Russia came here in 1872.

HILL ITEMS

Mr. Hiram Moorman, of Louisville has been here visiting relatives and friends.

Mr. Smith Black, of Irvine, Ky., was here two or three days last week to see his brother, R. S. Black, and Mrs. Black.

Mr. J. H. McKinney attended Sunday school at the Lucile Memorial last Sunday.

David Allen, little son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Allen has been quite ill, but is some what better.

There were two new pianos placed on the Hill last week.

A day or two ago word was received here that Mrs. George Wilson (nee Miss Helen Miller), who is well known in Cloverport, in attempting to get of a street car was struck by a car and seriously hurt. Mrs. Joe Gedling received a telegram Saturday saying she was seriously hurt.

Mrs. S. P. Lamb has returned from Chicago.

Mrs. Roy Mattingly and daughters were in Owensboro, Saturday.

Mrs. Luther Satterfield spent last Saturday in Owensboro.

The work on Dam 45 at Addison was closed down last Wednesday as soon as the Government boat is ready a crew of men and material with four or five of the employees will be transferred to Henderson to work on Dam 48 about four miles below Henderson.

Mr. Smith Black accompanied by R. S. Black, his brother, went to Derby, to spend two or three days with relatives.

Taught by Experience.

Dr. Joseph De Stephano has recently said, "Hell is paved with good intentions," was a man who endured the severest poverty, and was always put off by those whom he asked for support, only to be told after he became famous that they had intended to help him.

Salt May Be Cause of Cancer.

Dr. Joseph De Stephano has recently advanced the theory that the use of salt may be the cause of cancer, and he quotes some instances that seem to indicate that such is the case. Some other physicians, however, take issue with him and the statement is made that in Italy where salt is eaten in great quantities there is very little cancer.

Unfair Discrimination.

Nicholas watched his papa give his two older brothers money for carfare and money for the collection at church. He wanted to go to church also, but his papa told him he would have to stay at home. He immediately said: "Why don't you make them kids stay home? They is the ones what always wants the nickels."

Greatest Man.

Leonardo da Vinci is considered by several competent judges to have the strongest claim to the title of the greatest man in history. He was the outstanding genius in the golden age of genius, the age of Shakespeare, Luther, Erasmus, Corvantes, Michael Angelo, Titian and Raphael.

Coloring Arc-Lamp Globes.

The purple color of arc-lamp globes is due to the use of manganese in the glass. The manganese is used to counteract the greenish color which comes from ferrous salts in the glass, but the action of light on the manganese only substitutes a purple coloration for a greenish hue.

CLUB CAMPS FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

Thirty-two Counties in Ky. Arrange to Have Agricultural Club Camps.

Lexington, Ky., April 30.—Plans are rapidly being completed in connection with the schedule of junior agricultural club camps whereby Kentucky farm boys and girls will be given a real vacation this summer, according to announcements coming from the office of C. W. Buckler, of the state college of agriculture and leader of junior club work. A schedule of 23 four-day camps for 32 counties has been completed.

The camps which will begin July 4, and end August 27, will be held in three series, the first and second ones beginning on the same day while the third will start four days later and continue with the other two.

The schedule of camps as announced by Mr. Buckler is as follows:

July 4 to 8, Muhlenburg and Simpson counties; July 11, and 15, Ballard, Logan and Campbell counties; July 18, to 22, Graves, Warren and Rockcastle and Madison counties; July 25, to 29, Union, Bagren, Knox, Clay and Bell counties; August 1, to 5, Henderson, Hart and Whitley counties; August 8, to 12, Daviess, Larnel and Jackson counties; August 15, to 19, Shelby, Taylor, Powell, Lee, Owsley and Breathitt counties; August 22, 26, Jefferson, Marion, Boyd, Lawrence and Martin county.

MONEY AND MARRIAGE

An income sufficient for marriage is estimated at $50 by men and $72 by girls in a canvass of 1,000 young people resident in association dormitories in New York City, taken as representative of pre-matrimonial opinion, says Boston Globe.

The figures are quoted from a questionnaire which contains other items no less interesting. The entries of men showed what was conceived to be the marrying income varied with the line of work or the profession. Clerks thought $50 adequate, while salesmen would not consider a trip to the altar with less than $70 assured in the weekly envelope. That the girls were nearly unanimous for $72 showed that their ideas were unaffected by their positions, for no matter what their education or home surroundings may have been, or what their present earnings are, they all intend to keep house on about the same scale.

The answers of men and women viewed separately were almost identical in the distribution of expenses. Each placed about the same importance on the relative disbursements of the home. Viewed together, however, men allot more money to the dinner table than women, but women assign more for clothes. All plan to save 10 percent, and declare that they intend to operate on a budget basis, and pay by check.

With this sum all believe they can live "comfortably" the first year, when they "anticipate the most trouble," and by "comfortably" is meant a talking machine, but not an automobile.

In case of misfortune they could manage with less, but with $41, the men say, and $47, the girls add, they could "exist" only on the "bare necessities."

But of course, all this is discussed on a basis which is entirely academic. It is not to be imagined that any of the young people have met the "right one." What would the pencil write with two heads behind it? And how will their ideas be viewed on looking back, 20 years from now?
